Observations... Chamber of Commerce Calls Decisive Meeting For July 10

By UDELL

The City is waging a battle against the mosquitoes and the diseases they carry. Three or four crews are cleaning all of the ditches in town in order to destroy the breeding holes of these pests, and every night the fogging machine is used to spray all areas of the City. During the day, the machine is used to spray ditches with liquid DDT.

The people of Hancock County will be given an opportunity to decide if they want a Chamber of Commerce on July 10. Every one is invited to attend an open meeting of the group and help make this all important decision. A Chamber of Commerce is vital to every community, particularly one like ours. But, in order for this organization to function properly, it needs the support of every merchant and citizen in the community. It's just like everything else in Hancock County, when something is introduced that might help the town progress, what happens? Everyone loses interest, and the work is left to just a few public-spirited citizens. Right now, the Chamber of Commerce has only a handful of active members who attend the meetings. The job of keeping the organization active and wide-awake has been thrown into their laps. There are just too many businessmen and citizens in Hancock County who can benefit from a lively C. of C. to let it die down from lack of interest. Make it a point to attend the meeting July 10 and show the officers of this group that you are interested in the welfare of your community. JOIN THE C. OF C. AND BECOME AN ACTIVE MEMBER. NOT JUST A WATCHER.

Once again, the Bay St. Louis Youth Center is making its annual calls for operating funds. Last year, you, the people of Bay St. Louis, donated enough funds to keep the Club open during the period. Starting July 1, the teen-agers will ask your support, both moral and financial. THE SEA COAST ECHO will publish the list of donors each week, until their quota is reached. Your contribution, whether small or large, is an investment in the futures of the children of our community. It is providing them with a well-rounded group of wholesome, supervised activities.

Chamber of Commerce Calls Decisive Meeting For July 10

At a meeting of the Directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night, June 24, it was unanimously decided by the Board that a general membership meeting of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce would be called for Thursday, July 10, at 8 p.m. in the Hancock County courthouse for the purpose of determining whether or not the Chamber of Commerce would continue to operate as a body for the said county.

A check of the membership roll of the Chamber of Commerce was made at the directors' meeting and the roll revealed that there were 60 members of the Chamber of Commerce for the year 1952, of which membership only 38 were local, and the other 22 were members outside of Hancock County. This fact, according to officials, revealed an utter lack of interest of Hancock County in their local Chamber of Commerce.

It was further revealed that the local Chamber of Commerce has suffered constant criticism from the citizenry of Hancock County, most of said criticism being derived from people who were not members of the Chamber of Commerce and who have utterly failed to cooperate in any respect with any progressive movements sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

It was added that at the former general membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for this year, there were only 12 people present from Hancock County, this after publication had been given in local newspapers, and through letters addressed to every member of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was the consensus of opinion of the Board of Directors that it might be of interest to the public to enumerate a few of the accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce during the current year, to-wit:

1. Sponsorship of and cooperation with Bay St. Louis Officials in pest control; operation of fogging and spraying machine.
2. Annual Christmas lighting, purchasing and maintaining bulbs, wire, etc. for Christmas lights through the city, including Christmas tree in front of Court House, paying cost of erecting and removing said lights; paying cost of electricity.
3. Sand Beach—public lighting.
4. Maintenance of office and secretary. Answering numerous daily inquiries and correspondence and other inquiries relative to tourists and prospective business and residents for Hancock County.
5. Advertising and preparing press releases, one of which resulted in a long editorial in the New Orleans Item about Hancock County.
6. Active in securing airport landing strip.
7. Membership in numerous organizations dedicated to the promotion of Gulf Coast, etc., business, including Gulf Coast Advertising Association; Mississippi Coast Council; Mississippi Economic Council; Chamber of Commerce of the United States; etc.
8. Numerous donations, including contribution to visiting 4-H Club members for meal and trip to Ship Island; soft drinks served to visiting Boy Scouts on regional tour; entertaining visiting dignitaries; contribution toward expense of participation in State Beauty Contest; contribution to P. T. A. Mardi Gras; etc.
9. Appearance before Interstate Commerce Commission hearings in behalf of commuters' rate.

The future of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will be determined at the July 10 meeting. Everyone is invited to attend and express his opinions.

Classes daily from 9:00 to 5:00 p.m. and further information may be obtained by visiting the College or by telephoning Pass Christian 192.

Single Bridge Bid Rejected By State

The state highway department has rejected the lone bid made on construction of approaches to the new four lane Highway 90 bridge spanning the Bay of St. Louis.

The bid was received Tuesday from Merritt, Chapman and Scott's construction company, but was considered 42 per cent above the original highway department's estimate, according to J. D. Montette spokesman for the highway department.

Merritt, Chapman and Scott's bid of $915,712.75 was compared with the highway department's estimate of $635, 186.33.

The project includes 1.08 miles of grading, paving, service drive, tollhouse drive and some street lighting at both approaches, Montette said.

Bids for the project will be readvertised by July 22, it was announced.

Red Cross Collects 80 Pints Of Blood In County Monday

Eighty pints of blood were donated to the American Red Cross at the Bay St. Louis Youth Center Monday. This is in comparison to 104 pints donated the previous time the Red Cross blood mobile came to Hancock County three months ago.

One hundred and ten persons made appointments to give their blood, but through non-arrival of some of these persons and rejection of others, only 80 pints were collected.

This was a lag from what the toll should have been, but nevertheless shows that some Hancock Countyans are thinking of their fellow man in contributing blood for both military and domestic usage. Recognition should also be given to those who contributed their time in working at the blood bank Monday.

Rev. Father Pung Appointed New Rector At St. Augustine's Seminary

The Very Reverend Robert E. Pung, S. V. D., is the new rector of St. Augustine's Seminary. The ceremony of installation took place at 11:30 a. m., Tuesday, June 17. Before the entire community, assembled in the chapel, the Very Rev. William C. Bauer, S. V. D., Superior of the Southern Province, read from the main altar the official communication from Rome. Then, after making a solemn profession of faith, the new rector delivered a short sermon in which he praised the accomplishments of his predecessors and sought the cooperation of his associates. Finally he bestowed his blessing on the community. After imploring the help of the Blessed Virgin at her altar, the new superior was led to his quarters by the Very Rev. Provincial and four priests.

Other appointments, published at this time, are as follows: The Rev. Hubert Pofjena, S. V. D., formerly Prefect of students, is now Novice Master of the Brothers; the Rev. William Adams, S. V. D., faculty member of Holy is now Prefect of the Students at St. Augustine's Seminary; the Rev. Paul Kurl, S. V. D., formerly Treasurer of the Seminary is now Provincial Treasurer. The Provincial and his Board of Advisors have been reappointed. The Very Rev. William C. Bauer, S. V. D. is still Provincial and the Rev. Maurice Rousseve, S. V. D., Prefect of Scholastics, Assistant Provincial. The consultants who retain their positions on the Board are the Rev. Joseph Eckert, S. V. D., pastor of St. Rose de Lima Church, Bay St. Louis, Miss; Christian Baker, S. V. D., member of the Major Seminary Faculty, and Anthony Bourges, S. V. D., pastor of Notre Dame Church, St. Martinville, La.

Born in Westphalia, Michigan, in 1916, the Very Rev. Robert E. Pung, S. V. D., began his studies for the missionary priesthood in the Society of the Divine Word at St. Mary's Mission Seminary, Techny, Illinois, in 1931. The following September, he volunteered to continue his studies in the newly established seminary St. Paul's Mission Seminary, Epworth, Iowa. He completed his first two years of college - the last two years of preparatory seminary - at Sacred Heart Mission Seminary, Techny, Illinois, in 1934.

During the summer of 1945, after his seminary course was finished Father Pung was first assigned to the Southern Province, where he took up his studies as Assistant Prefect of Students in St. Augustine's Minor Seminary. This position he held for four and a half years.

Vitally interested in keeping the germ of the priestly vocation alive in the hearts of boys still in elementary school, Father Pung originated the FUTURE PRIEST CLUB in September, 1947. The success of this idea of encouraging vocations to both the diocesan clergy and to the various religious orders can be observed from the fact that 9,000 copies of the SHEPHERD, the club's official publication, were distributed last month.

Father Pung has also been the guiding spirit of the Lay Retreat Movement at St. Augustine's Seminary, which began in the summer of 1945 with 35 men participating and which reached its peak

OUT OF TIDE LANDS

The location is well out of the controversial tidelands, Goodman said, and that the company expects to get a drilling permit from Mississippi's conservation department after approval from the Engineers.

The well, to be known as the Gulf-Melban State of Mississippi No. 1, will be about one mile due east of the Pearl River and Lake Borgne junction, about one-half mile off Hancock County's shoreline and 10 miles southwest of Bay St. Louis, Goodman said. The venture is half owned by the Melban Oil Company, Pittsburgh, but the Gulf will be the operator.

The company began seismic sounding in Gulf waters during the latter part of 1951. "Shooting"—the oil industry's term for seismograph exploration of subsurface formations for structure delineation—has been carried on in an area roughly covering 800,000 acres in Sound waters. The area that was surveyed extended from Pearl River, which forms the Louisiana-Mississippi boundary, east along the coast on a line jutting out in the Gulf as far as 15 miles from the mainland to some places.

Coast Counties To Entertain 4-H Kids Of Minnesota

A Minnesota exchange delegation of 27 4-H Club boys and girls will be guests of different 4-H groups throughout the state through July 9. Under the sponsorship of the Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the Minneapolis Tribune, the Minnesota youths brought them into Mississippi June 21 when they were entertained at Sardis Lake.

Since then the boys and girls of Minnesota have been assigned Mississippi 4-H "buddies" throughout the state with whom they will stay and learn of Mississippi life until July 5 when they will depart from the Mississippi coast.

Saturday evening, July 5, and Sunday, July 6, the young people will be entertained by the coast counties, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson. Saturday evening the coast counties will entertain at the Alamo Plaza with a banquet. Sunday morning the 4-Hers will be escorted to church; Sunday noon Wayne and Lamar Counties will treat with the noon meal; and Sunday afternoon the coast counties will offer a boat ride to Ship Island and a picnic supper upon return.

Sponsoring Hancock County's entertainment will be Hancock Bank, Merchant's Bank, the Chamber of Commerce and the Rural Electrification Association.

While on the coast the Minnesota delegation will stay at the 4-H training center at the Old Magnolia Park. From there the young people will take a quick trip to New Orleans and will then take in Natchez and other Mississippi points of interest before leaving the state for home.

This is the second of an exchange of visits between Mississippi and Minnesota 4-H delegations. Last year 28 Mississippi 4-H members journeyed to Minnesota for a week stay.

THE NEED OF COOPERATION

The press, radio, circular letters and outdoor sign boards along the coast are being employed today in bringing the wonders of Gulf Coast cities to the eyes of the public. But something seems to be the matter with the ambition of Bay merchants.

Seven years ago a group of enterprising local citizens got together, reactivated and reorganized the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce into a county chamber of commerce. It looked like big things were in store for our town and county. As time wore on, however, the C of C wore out. Probably the fact that we have a chamber of commerce is not known by too many. The lack of interest in the chamber of commerce has left the organization to a few public spirited men who are still slugging it out in an attempt to do something for the county. It's time the merchants respond to the chamber's urgent need of help. Through loss of membership the finances of the C of C have dropped to nil. Just recently the group's paid secretary had to be discharged because of insufficient funds with which to pay him. We imagine he didn't have too much work to do anyway. A good while back open meetings were dispensed with since there were so few who showed up for these meetings. Now only called meetings are held for the general membership (there hasn't been a called meeting for some time) and board meetings are held now and then, the last being about two weeks ago.

Maybe, when first formed, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce started out on the wrong road; we don't know. The battle cry then was "Payrolls are what we want and payrolls are what we will get." This was a balance agriculture with industry theme. Maybe the chamber was wrong in trying to get industry started in a county where there is too little labor and materials available. The garment factory erected here a few years back was an example of that. Maybe the county should take advantage of what it has in the line of natural resources: tourist attraction and agricultural possibilities. It seems that that is what the present leaders of the chamber of commerce think, for they are presently preparing a booklet which will deal with these two things.

Bay St. Louis and Waveland are tourist towns. A sizeable amount of our summer income is dependent on tourist trade, particularly trade from New Orleans people who invest in homes or rent homes for summer use and then naturally do their shopping and seek their entertainment in this vicinity. Whether recreation in this "vicinity" will be here or elsewhere along the coast is up to the chamber of commerce and the merchants who SHOULD be supporting the chamber.

Home Agents Notes

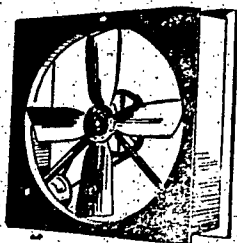

By MADGE ALLRED

Three 4-H Club boys and girls from Hancock County are attending the 24th annual State 4-H Club Congress at State College this week. These 4-H'ers are county project winners and leaders who are joining with over 1,000 other outstanding 4-H Club members from over the state in study, contests, fun and inspiration.

We have not only failed to attract people who have had no contact with the coast; but we have failed to show the visitors already here anything in the way of attraction other than the bay and Mississippi sound which the Almighty has put before their eyes. The community has even been too stagnant to capitalize on this asset.

Our neighbors across the bay at Pass Christian Isles have, in five or six years, built and sold approximately 135 homes. Between 150 and 155 homes are expected to be located at the Isles at summer's end. All this from swamp land. How did they do it? Advertising, local and national. We admit that all this was done by a private company but think what a cooperative group could do with the backing of many private businesses. Florida was built on advertising, the Mississippi coast is rising on it, and Hancock County can attract its share of the tourist trade by using it. Agriculture? Like tourist trade, agriculture can be developed by letting the people know what the opportunities are, what the land can produce. Again, this can be achieved only through advertising. But all this advertising takes cooperation and financing. It takes the business people in the county to want to be a part of it not just a "go alonger." We hope this piece of print will do something in reviving interest in the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, which seven years ago was afire with enthusiasm to bring prosperity to the people of the county.

The hot, dry weather of summer does considerable damage to gardens, but you can prevent some of this by watering and mulching.

If you have the water available, give your garden a thorough watering each week during drought periods. Give a watering equal to one inch of rainfall. Sprinkling for a short time each day does more harm than good in most cases. It brings the feed roots close to the surface of the soil where the hot, dry soil damages them. One thorough soaking is better than many sprinklings.

After a good watering or rain, apply a mulch three to four inches deep around the plants. You may use hay, straw, pine needles, compost or heavy paper. Mulches help save moisture and keep down weeds and grass. Of course, all weeds and grass should be removed before the mulch is applied.

GOING ON VACATION
Do you ever make a list of the things you will need on trips or vacation? Try it - it's good planning. Begin well ahead so you can add to it as you think of needed things.

It's easier to pack that way and one sure way you won't forget your sun glasses, the special handbag or that important white shoe polish.

About white shoes, do take along some white shoe cleaner. It will fit right into the toe of one of your white shoes. Wrap the sponge in tissue and stick it in the other shoe.

CHECK AND BANK ACCOUNTS
All checks should be written in ink. Never sign a blank check. If a signed blank check is lost, the person who finds it could fill in any amount and you would be liable for that amount. Always fill out your check stub before writing a check.

Do keep up with your bank balance, as well as the number and

In the Sea Coast Echo, FIFTY YEARS AGO Old St. Louis threw open its doors Tuesday night to an immense audience. The occasion was an entertainment given under the auspices of the dramatic and musical clubs as a compliment to the great crowd of visitors and patrons of the college.

One of the features of the evening's entertainment was the music by the school's brass band orchestra under the direction of Prof. J. A. Hemmerbach. The drama of this year's program was "Pizarro" by Sheridan.

The artistic settings showed to advantage and together with the rich costumes of the actors presented a dazzling scene, one seldom seen even in the theatre-loving city of New Orleans.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO
The Edward Hines Lumber Co. Lumberton, is desirous of interesting owners of land contiguous to theirs for the purpose of leasing and drilling for oil.

After some two months or more of patient negotiations, the Edward Hines company, through investigation of a number of contracts in various states, decided to contract with the Dixie Oil Company, as they are beyond question of financial ability and in addition they have the facilities to systematically and scientifically investigate. In fact, one of the clauses in the Hines Company's contract provides that within a year they will spend a minimum of $250,000 on their lands in this investigation, free of any costs.

Should any oil be discovered there will be a wild scramble and the only thought in offering our friends and neighbors the chance to come in on this contract is so that county people will profit by the action.

Of approximately 17,000 pounds of scrap rubber has been collected in Bay St. Louis. The quota for the county is approximately 36,000. We have done fine so far and we want to thank all the filling stations that are co-operating in this vital and urgent Defense Program. (from Civil Defense column.)

FIVE YEARS AGO

Members of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre and their guests are promised an unusual treat in the theatre's next production "Outward Bound" by Sutton Vane. This play has been done on Broadway, in the movies and over radio. The Bay St. Louis Post Office will be advanced to July 1. In order for a post office the rank of first class office to be classed as first class it is necessary that the revenue exceed

County Agent's Notes

By HOWARD SIMMONS

Farmers with small acreages of cotton, five to ten acres, can do a good job of spraying with a three-gallon knapsack sprayer.

Any knapsack sprayer in good operating condition can be used. For mid-season and late-season spraying, you can buy a two and three nozzle boom to attach to your three-gallon sprayer. Use a nozzle with No. 1 hollow cone tip.

Using the knapsack type sprayer, you can cover about one acre an hour. Do not put more than one and a half gallons of diluted material in the sprayer at a time. In this way, you leave more room for air and will be able to cover an acre with two or three pumpings.

Caution. When using a sprayer, clean water is a must. Premix the material with an equal amount of water, then dilute according to recommendations. Strain the mixture into the sprayer.

HOME GARDENING

Don't let hot dry summer weather ruin that garden. Proper watering and mulching may save the garden should be watered equal to a one-inch rain once a week. After watering apply a good mulch of hay, straw, pine needles, compost or heavy paper. This will protect the garden from drying out too rapidly and help keep down the grass and weeds.

Caution. Do not sprinkle lightly. This may cause roots to come to the surface and result in death of plants. Too, light sprinkling promotes the growth of crabgrass.

$40.00 per year. New officers taking over their duties at the Bay-Waveland Garden Club are Mesdames Eugene Mogabgab, president; J. R. Rollins, first vice-president; Max Kohler, second vice-president; E. P. Kirkpatrick, parliamentarian; C. A. Breath, corresponding secretary; J. C. Mauffray, recording secretary; and E. F. Fahey Jr., treasurer.

ONE YEAR AGO
Two hundred and twenty-six children registered Monday for the Water Safety courses being offered by the Hancock County chapter of the American Red Cross. Kenneth R. Whitfield, chairman, announced.

Miss Nannette Arceneaux is instructing the beginners and Mrs. Beardon, Miss June Breath, Mrs. L. A. Rogers, the intermediate. Assistant instructors are Mrs. Robert L. Hamilton, Miss Hilda Beardon, Miss June Breath, and Miss Betty Fitell.

POULTRY

Save on the cost of high priced bought feeds by providing good green pastures for your pullets. Rape or Sudan make for excellent summer grazing. While pullets are on range provide plenty of fresh water and shelters to keep them dry in case of rain. Keep feeders covered to protect them from rain.

It has been estimated by successful poultrymen that as much as 50 cents per bird can be saved by providing plenty of green pastures for replacement pullets.

HERE AND THERE REMINDERS
All pastures should be clipped this summer. However, don't clip them too close to the ground. Raise the mower bar from four to six inches above the ground. July is the best time to spray pastures with one pound of the amine form of 2, 4-D in 20 gallons of water for weed control. Farmers intending to plant ryegrass, or oats this fall should buy or book-seeds now. July is the deadline for filing applications for joining a cotton-improvement group—you get two special benefits from the U. S. Department of Agriculture—free cotton classification and marketing news service.

gram without lessening the fire control effort.

Subjects stressed during the week were: planting and seed collection, deadening of interior hardwoods, forest insects and disease, use of management equipment, timber, marking, volume and growth calculations, marketing of timber, inspection and maintenance of equipment, management demonstration, and natural stores demonstration.

In addition to the above subjects such area forester was given complete instructions on the identification and control of a Southern pine bark beetle attack. The beetle attack in Southwest Mississippi has reached the epidemic stage. It is believed that this attack results from ice damage to timber which was general throughout most of the state and beetle attacks are likely to break out at any place.

Through the results of this school it is felt that State Forest Service personnel who were in attendance can return to their respective areas and do an even better job in promoting forestry in a way that will be advantageous to all concerned.

LEE EMPHASIZES CONSERVATION AID

To guide farmers of Hancock County in determining the "most urgently needed conservation" on their individual farms, Fitzhugh Lee, Chairman of the PMA county committee, emphasized the points which farmers should consider.

The objective of conservation is production. "Whatever is done should be aimed at meeting current needs stimulated by the defense effort and at meeting the future needs of our increasing population."

The chairman points out that emphasis should be on those conservation practices which will give the greatest return on the investment - both the investment of the individual farmer and the investment of the public provided through the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Practices which the farmer would carry out without program help should not be included. This applies to practices which ACP helped get underway but which have now become a part of routine operations.

Particular emphasis should be on soil and water conservation practices "most urgently needed" on the individual farm. This may mean a concentrated effort to meet a common problem affecting several farms or it may mean distinct and quite different operations even for adjoining farms.

The chairman especially urges farmers to consider practices of the permanent type - small dams, terraces, tree planting and improvement, establishment and improvement of grasses and legumes. If the soil structure is breaking down, practices to restore humus may be the primary need.

In determining the "most urgently needed" conservation, the chairman urges each farmer using ACP assistance and Soil Conservation Service technical help "to keep in mind his own responsibility as a partner in the Nation's wide effort to protect and improve the Nation's land and water resources."

Congressional Sidelights

Congressman Wm. McColmer

RE-ESTABLISH THE VALUE OF THE DOLLAR

The soundness of the financial structure of a nation is an essential foundation block for the continuation and preservation of its government. Today the United States of America is face to face with that economic truth. As the result of governmental spending through an economic depression and two global wars, this country has accumulated a staggering debt of around two hundred and sixty-five billion dollars, most of which has been built up in the last three decades. This has happened notwithstanding the fact that the people have been taxed at the highest rate during that period in all of the history of the Republic.

Likewise it is an axiomatic fact that huge governmental spending brings about inflation. Inflation in turn has possibly caused the fall of more governments than the resultant revolutions and chaos than defeat in wars. The current spending spree of the United States is no exception. Recent figures compiled by the competent economists show that the American dollar today has a fifty-three cent purchasing power as compared with the 1939 dollar. These figures further illustrate that today's dollar as compared with the 1939 dollar will purchase the following values:

Farm lands	40c
New houses	43c
Food	41c
House furnishings	49c
Clothing	50c
Labor	38c

DISASTER AHEAD.
Again the trained mind of an economist is not necessary to deduct that if this trend is continued the value of the American dollar will become so dissipated that it will be worth practically nothing. The history of foreign countries demonstrates this. After World War I and again after World War II in some of the foreign countries, notably Germany and France, the value of the German Mark and the French franc depreciated to the point where it became practically necessary for the German or French citizen to transport his money in a wheelbarrow in order to bring back an arm full of groceries from the market.

The primary cause of all of this is the huge governmental spending. Today, for instance, the Federal Government alone is mailing out monthly twenty-four million checks. Add to this the cost of war contracts and hundreds of other comparatively minor governmental activities and we find a grand total of between seventy-five and one hundred billion dollars of governmental money going into the economy of the country.

CAUSE FOR CONCERN AND ACTION

Faced with this unpleasant picture of impending national bankruptcy some of us in the Congress as well as out are vitally concerned about this unbridled spending. Some of us are trying to do something about it, but the outside pressure is great. Currently Senator John McClellan of Arkansas and this writer are and have been for several months trying to get legislation through the Congress which would give the Congress a staff of experts, responsible to the Congress, so that the Congress could analyze the budget independently of the President and the government bureaus. And thus return the power of the purse strings to the Congress, the representatives of the taxpayers. In this effort we have met strong opposition from

by
W. F. Bond, Director of Public Relations

If a person applying for Old Age assistance owns a home, the real value of which including any land or lots that may go with it is over $2500, he can not qualify for this help. Real value does not mean assessed value, but means what the home could be sold for. An applicant, in addition to owning a home whose real value is not over $2500, may have a cash reserve of not over $150 and a husband and wife may have a reserve of not over $300 together.

The Administration's leaders and the high ranking members of the Appropriations Committee, who are jealous of their prerogatives. It is not contended that this legislation would be a cure-all but it is stoutly maintained that with the assistance of such experts much economy could be made and much of the waste and extravagance now prevalent in Government could be eliminated. As it is now the Congress is faced with thousands of executive and departmental experts who present only one side of the picture, their side. This places the Congress virtually at the mercy of the Chief Executive and the bureaus.

COST OF SEEDLINGS CLIMBS WITH PRODUCTION PRICES

Because of the general high level of prices which continually push up production costs, the Mississippi Forestry Commission at its last monthly meeting approved an increase in the price of cash seedlings from $3.00 to $3.50 per thousand, it was announced by C. B. Marlin, forest management director.

The average total cost of production at both State Nurseries over the last five years figures $5.04 per thousand. The operating cost of the cost connected entirely with producing the seedlings (seed gathering, purchase, planting, weed and grass control, lifting, etc.) averages $3.66 per thousand over the five year period. These figures, in addition to a planned expansion costs give evidence to support the seedling price increase, Marlin stated.

Production costs during the next biennium will also be slightly higher than minimum costs due to building maintenance costs at Mt. Olive Nursery, higher than normal equipment maintenance and replacement at both Mt. Olive and Winona Nurseries, and replacement of $3,500 worth of overhead irrigation system borrowed from the Soil Conservation Service, which must be returned this fall.

A planned ditching operation must be carried out at Winona to prevent flood waters spreading over the nursery. Flood waters killed or ruined over two million seedlings last year.

In view of the rapid growth of the tree planting program causing an increased demand for seedlings in the State, a building expansion program is planned at Winona Nursery this year to give the State seed extraction facilities and additional cone handling facilities. In the past, these operations have been carried out at the U. S. Forest Service Ashe Nursery, Brooklyn, Mississippi, however, under the present set-up this is beginning to tax Ashe Nursery very heavily.

Transportation charges will remain the same at 35 cents per thousand and each landowner is eligible for 5,000 free seedlings upon application. Seedling applications are received between July 1 and November 1 each year.

A "Must" for New Industry

New industries coming to Mississippi demand many services. Chief among them is one that's customarily taken for granted—the telephone!

Responding to the demands of growing industry and the increasing prosperity of the state, Southern Bell has carried on a vast program of expansion and improvement. By six years of hard work and the expenditure of over 60 million dollars, we have more than doubled telephone facilities. Mississippians are served now by approximately a quarter of a million telephones in place of the 115 thousand they had in 1945, and service is better.

Today, despite shortages of many materials, we are continuing to extend our system and improve our service to Mississippi cities and rural areas. Day by day we grow in ability to serve industries, homes and farms... and to expedite today's most important job—National Defense.

Will July 4 Be Safe or Sorry?

Ninety million Americans will go forth on the Fourth - for a holiday or a hollow day.

The National Safety Council estimates that there will be 40,000,000 passenger vehicles on U. S. streets and highways during the three-day weekend and that they will travel 5,000,000,000 miles - enough to circle the world 200,000 times.

The figures only emphasize the tremendous amount of travel to be expected during the holiday, the Council said. It emphasized that more cars on the road traveling more miles will inevitably mean more accidents - unless there is more caution than usual.

on the part of the motoring public.

An ominous note already has been sounded this year with the traffic death toll for Memorial Day setting a new record of 380 lives lost in traffic alone.

In an attempt to prevent a holiday of tragedy for hundreds of persons, the Council is conducting again this year a nationwide campaign for a safe Independence Day celebration.

Many national organizations, government, officials, police departments and local safety councils are cooperating in the effort.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, appealed to every citizen to do his part in preventing traffic tragedy over the Fourth.

"You as an individual can do something about it," he said, "because these tragedies result from things we can control - haste, selfishness, thoughtlessness, the desire to show off."

Make your holiday drive a safety drive, Mr. Dearborn urged, by obeying the following rules:

1. Make sure your car is in safe mechanical condition.
2. Start your trip in plenty of time, so you won't have to hurry.
3. Keep your speed down. Slow up here and show up there.
4. Pass other cars only if there is plenty of room.
5. Stay far enough behind other cars so that you can stop in an emergency.
6. Keep your temper, and be courteous and patient in heavy traffic.

7. Don't drive after drinking - even a little.
8. Stop and rest whenever overtired or sleepy.

Illegal Fishing Brings Heavy Fine

"More and more telephone calls for fish are getting the wrong numbers, says Eugene Fly, Director of the Game-Fish Comm.

Director Fly says that an intensified drive against telephone fishermen and those who have recently been resorting to the use of poison has been directed by the Game-Fish Commission and all violators will be prosecuted to the limit. Passage by the Legislature providing penalties of not less than $100.00 and not more than $500.00 fines and not less than 60 days and not more than 6 months in jail, or both, for the illegal use of electrical fishing devices or chemicals for the taking of fish has strengthened the arm of the Commission, and the Commission is confident that the vigorous program now underway will discourage would-be violators and go a long way toward breaking up the illegal practices. Prior to the passage of this bill providing heavier penalties there was no specific penalty for telephone fishing and the usual fine was $10.00.

SAILPLANE PROJECT AT MISSISSIPPI STATE COLLEGE PROVIDING VALUABLE AERONAUTICAL DATA

Following is the second of a series of articles prepared by the State Aeronautics Commission designed to broaden the knowledge and interest of Mississippians in aviation. Another article will follow next month.

A small group of highly trained and intensely enthusiastic scientists tucked away in a corner of Mississippi State College's sprawling campus is busily engaged in research that in the brief period of four years has made valuable contributions to the field of flight and flight operations.

Few Mississippians know of the work being conducted by the Aeronautics Department of the Engineering Research Station under the direction of Dr. August Raspet, a recognized and highly respected authority on aerodynamics.

Dr. Harold Plinsch, dean of engineering at Mississippi State, is director of the Research Station. In 1948 he outlined a sailplane project as a means of conducting aerodynamics experiments and he induced Dr. Raspet, at the time engaged in research work on Long Island, N. Y., to set up and direct the project.

No other school in the world, according to Dr. Raspet, is doing the same type of research with sailplanes as is being done at State College.

Research Station started its sailplane project on a shoestring and there have been times when it appeared it would have to be abandoned, but its excellent staff and initial studies finally attracted the attention of the Navy.

From which a portion of its funds now come. The remainder is supplied by the State of Mississippi, and for the type and amount of research being done the budget is shaved pretty thin. Nevertheless, the project is moving ahead.

Dr. Raspet and his associates collected an array of war surplus equipment from which they have fashioned some sailplanes and two airplanes, the latter being used principally for towing purposes.

The program has been feeding information steadily to four chief projects, technically labeled (1) laminar boundary layer flow, (2) convective structure in the atmosphere, (3) control and stability of airplanes, and (4) bird flight research.

These projects involve studies and measurements on the flow of air over and under wing surfaces which supply lift and drag, the effectiveness of large and small airfoils, the use of spoilers or flaps, the prevention and control of yaw (the nosy sway of a plane) the photographing of birds in flight and many other experiments of inestimable value to aerodynamic research.

For instance, it has been determined that birds close their wing tip feathers for gliding flight in order to reduce drag, and airplane and sailplane drag is the thing aeronautical engineers are constantly trying to reduce.

Bird flight studies have caused some authorities to believe that certain type birds may control the flow of air beyond their wing tips, thus extracting some energy from the wing-tip vortex. Dr. Raspet pointed out that the delineation of this effect awaits further low speed measurements.

Dr. Raspet continued that experiments and measurements conducted with sailplanes, which fly without motors, have certain advantages over those conducted in wind tunnels. A primary advantage is the cost. Wind tunnels, properly equipped, cost as much as $3,000,000. Sailplane experiments could be conducted for years on that sum of money. Too, air tunnels naturally generate considerable noise which, Dr. Raspet says, tends to disturb the flow of air owing to vibrations.

One of the most important projects is a study of boundary layer control. These experiments involve the flow of air over and under wing surfaces. Laminar flow is made up of even, smooth air layers, like sheets of paper being pushed over one another. It begins at the front edge of the wing and extends to a point where the top curve of the wing begins to descend. It does not induce drag. Turbulent flow, which usually begins at a point near the top curve of the wing and extends to the rear of the wing, possesses the same characteristics as rolling air currents and produces drag.

Dr. Raspet's group currently is attempting to maintain a laminar flow over the entire wing surface, or as great a portion of the surface as possible, and is experimenting with tiny wing holes, some 7000 to the square foot, as a means of eliminating turbulent flow.

Measurements for the various experiments are conducted whenever the air is very still. Best results are obtained then, Dr. Raspet said.

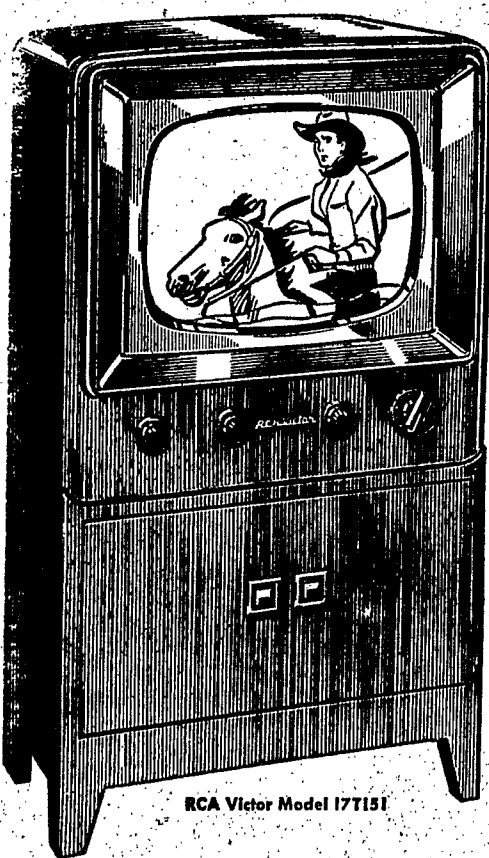

Dr. Raspet's chief associate is Melvin Swartzberg, operations manager for the project. He became associated with Dr. Raspet in the U. S. Weather Bureau's Thunderstorm Project and at one time worked on the Aerophysics Institute's Ridge Flow Project.

Glenn Bryant serves as the sailplane's aeronautical engineer. He makes the computations and performs the engineering. George Tabery serves as research pilot and as a glider pilot and craftsman. A highly important member of the staff is young Dick Johnson, the World War II pilot who holds the world's sailplane flight record with a distance of 535 miles at an average speed of 66.2 miles per hour and sustained flight of 3 hours and 35 minutes. Dick will represent the United States in the international sailplane competition in Spain this summer. The State Aeronautics Commission is sponsoring his trip and participation in the competition.

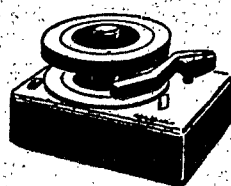

A few College engineering professors and some students assist in the Station's sailplane research work on a part time basis, but the biggest portion is done by Dr. Raspet and his group. It is small and little publicized but its excellent research work already has brought credit and recognition to Mississippi State and it is sure to make even greater contributions to the highly important field of aerodynamics.
